Miss Waller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Waller. Her father is one of the leading business men of Hawaii and was chairman of the Hawaiian delegation to the Democratic convention at Baltimore and is also head of the National Hawaiian Commission.

The bride-elect is a brunette, with a bright, vivacious manner, and is an accomplished musician. She is the sister of Mrs. John Hugh Clegg of London. She and her fiancé met during a trip abroad. The friendship between the young people, formed while touring Europe, was renewed last summer, when Miss Waller and her mother were visiting in the south and were shown much attention by Mills. EUROPEANS LIKE AMERICAN RAGTIME

American rag-time and Sousa marches are enjoyed more in Europe than Europeans would have us believe, according to Maud Powell, the celebrated violinist, who is scheduled to appear here in recital during the holidays.

"It is only in our own country that we hear that there is no such thing as characteristically American music," says Madame Powell. "In Europe popular airs are recognized in a moment by their characteristics, just as we are able to recognize immediately a Scotch ballad."

"But America has in view a higher achievement in music than this. It will be attained only when our composers realize the value of the material afforded by the history, the folklore, the literature and the wonderful natural beauties of their own country. Of such material there is an abundance and a variety to create the poetic mood, which will induce the vitalizing and transforming touch of artistic inspiration. Music thus created will be characteristically American in content as well as expression. It will be genuine American music."

POPULAR

The Popular Theatre, Honolulu's newest moving picture house, is increasing in volume of business every night and nothing but favorable comments are heard from people leaving the theatre. The Popular is by far the best arranged theatre in town and the comfortable opera chairs and first-run pictures, as well as the location of the playhouse, will soon make it the most Popular Theatre in Honolulu.

Tonight's change of program will include a comedy entitled "The Contender's Wife," "Willie the Hunter," which is a scenic feature besides being a laughable comedy, a Western comedy, "A Tenderfoot's Troubles," and a thrilling Indian drama.

HAWAII

The cozy Hawaii Theatre, the theatre which secures the first-run pictures before all others, is still holding its own in popularity and is nightly showing to big houses, which speak well for the Honolulu public, which appreciates the efforts of the Hawaii in giving the best pictures obtainable.

There will be a complete change of program this evening, and four brand new films will be introduced which are "The Little Stowaway," "A Cure for Jealousy," "Children Who Labor," and "A Timely Rescue."

Minerva—"Isn't it strange, mother, that all the heroines in novels marry poor men?"
Mater—"Yes, my dear; but that is fiction."
